

LEGACIES – Gifts left in your will

Legacies are a way of providing for the people and causes that you care for in your will. If you don't have a will it's a good idea to ask your solicitor to draft one for you. A properly drafted will ensures that your wishes are carried out as you would want them to be.

IF YOU ALREADY HAVE A WILL

If you already have a will, it's easy to amend it. Minor changes, such as adding a gift to HDSK, do not require a new will. The existing will can be amended by preparing a document called a codicil, which your solicitor can help you draw up. Please note the wording of a bequest may differ in Scotland. Your solicitor will be able to advise you on the correct terms.

INHERITANCE TAX

Any money you leave to your spouse or to a charity is not subject to inheritance tax. Your solicitor can advise you what the current government Inheritance Tax Limits are and whether you are likely to be subject to inheritance tax.

HOW YOU CAN LEAVE MONEY TO HDSK?

There are a number of ways you can leave a gift to HDSK

Residuary Legacy

The residue is what is left of your estate after all other debts, expenses and gifts have been deducted. The residue can be left in its entirety to one person or charity, or you may choose to divide it amongst a number of beneficiaries.

Pecuniary Legacy

This is a gift of a fixed sum of money or monies worth stated in your Will. Remember that inflation, unlike with a residuary bequest, will erode the value of such a gift over time, so it is a good idea to review pecuniary gifts regularly

Specific Legacy

If you make a specific gift this is called a specific legacy. This includes stocks and shares, the proceeds of a life assurance policy, or property.

Although we strongly recommend you consult with a solicitor about the wording of your will, attached are some sample forms of words, for all of the above, that you may find useful as a guide.

If you have further questions please contact Ann Savell, HDSK, PO Box 999, Hove, East Sussex BN52 9BT.
